Alexander Street Press, LLC products comply with most of the requirements for interfaces under Section 508 (29 U.S.C. '794d), which requires Federal Agencies and funded agencies to make their electronic and information technology accessible to people with disabilities.

Here are some specifics:

- We include text equivalents for all buttons and graphics using the <alt> tags.
- All information conveyed with color is also available without color.
- Our pages use high contrast to make it easier for individuals with reduced vision to read the text.
- Our pages allow reader software to parse a page correctly left to right and up to down.
- We do not use style-sheets
- We do not use server-side image maps
- We do use client side image maps together with <alt> text tags that explain the image hot spots.
- All row and column headers are identified for data tables with text.
- We do not use frames
- We do not use time-sequenced elements
